ABOUT US

Anunnakis is an Argentinian duo of DJs and electronic music producers formed by Amalia Larrea and Luis Lestani. They are a couple who have been married for over 14 years, serving as true representatives of love for music, art, and nature. These values are conveyed on stage through their sounds and unique style, as well as behind the scenes in their everyday lives.

The term “Anunnakis” refers to a group of Sumerian deities associated with extraterrestrial intervention in ancient times.

In their music, the duo expresses the vibrations of the universe—enveloping frequencies that awaken various feelings and emotions in a wide range of colors.

The chemistry and connection between them create a unique atmosphere show after show. They quickly connect with the audience, transmitting joy and intensity on the dance floor.

Their style and musical genre are unique, and they continually expand their spectrum over time. The influences of rock and pop from the '80s and '90s have been very strong, which is why they incorporate this imprint into all their productions.

Their progressive melodies subtly blend with techno beats, adding strong mainstream elements and a rhythmic structure full of groove. Depending on each track, their breaks can be emotional or even acid, but they will surely lead to a total explosion.

In each show, their performance is different; they exclusively play their own music while also surprising the audience with classic techno-rock remixes.

LABEL

VOLT

The Volt Crew is an independent record label with Argentine roots and operational base in the United States, created as a multidisciplinary artistic platform that merges music, visual identity and immersive experiences, with a strong focus on artistic authenticity over trends.

The label officially debuted with “Invasion”, the first EP by Anunnakis, conceived as both a sonic and conceptual statement. The release reached #1 on the Beatport Techno (Peak Time / Driving) chart, reinforcing the project’s impact within the global electronic music scene.

The project aims to transcend traditional genre labels within electronic music, blending textures and styles to build a complete sensory experience where sound, image and emotion coexist within the same creative universe.
